NO CASES FOR JURY TO HEAR

VENIREMEN AGAIN EXCUSED "UNTIL TOMORROW."

ALLOW BANK EXPENSE

Application of Northwestern Bank Commissioner Sustained.—Several Cases Are Continued.

The jury called in circuit court this morning again heard the familiar words, "You are excused until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning," when counsel for both sides in the conversion suit of the Barnard State Bank against Wiley Lankford announced there would be no trial.

Court was held open during the day, but only a few orders were made.

A demurrer to the petition was sustained in the note suit of the Zook & Roecker Banking Company of Oregon against R. L. Bilby. By agreement the suit to set aside a will, brought by Cordia A. Kinnison, and others, against John Rush of Barnard and others, was continued.

The back tax suit of S. J. Friend, collector of Burlington Junction against Mrs. Martha Geise, et al., was settled and dismissed.

Another back tax suit, that of Bess C. Thorp, county treasurer against Thomas R. Bridges, et al., was continued.

A motion to quash the return of a garnishment was sustained in the garnishment suit brought by Fred Dodds against Roy Hanna, Don F. Hanna, the Roe-Kelley Livestock Commission Company and William Roe, garnishee, and the sheriff was given leave to amend the return to the writ of garnishment according to facts.

Alfred Shackelford defaulted in the note suit brought against him by H. M. and H. T. Tyler.

Yesterday's Proceedings.

The proceedings of the court yesterday afternoon:

Lewis E. Miller et al., against the Northwestern Bank, account, stricken from the docket.

J. F. McManus against the Chicago Great Western Railway damages, continued.

Demurrers in the suits brought by Jesse Headrick, for account and damages; Bertha Headrick for account and damages, and J. W. Headrick for deposit account, against the board of directors of the Northwestern Bank, were overruled and the defendants given permission to file answer within thirty days before the next term of court.

The aplication of S. E. Evans, deputy finance commissioner of the Northwestern Bank of Burlington Junction, to approve expenses of $3,623.84 from October 1, 1927, to December 31, 1927, was sustained.

Three New Suits Filed.

Three suits were filed yesterday:

Franklin E. Bonar against the Hershey State Bank of Muscatine, Ia., to cancel deed of trust.

Isaac J. Crossan, jr., et al., against Gilbert R. Crossan, et al., partition.

James A. Crossan, against Harry G. Crossan and Isaac Crossan, et al., partition.

Oldtime Religion Will Be Discussed

The Fellowship Meeting at the First Methodist Church will discuss tonight at 7:30 o'clock, "The Oldtime Religion or the Newtime Religion."

Among the questions to be asked will be "How old is the Oldtime Religion?" "What is new in the Newtime Religion?" "Are there other matters besides religion that are Oldtime?" "Do we want all the Oldtime Religion or only part of it?" "Should the Church be conservative or progressive?" "Which has proved most often right, the majority or the minority?" Those who attend these Wednesday night meetings say that they are about the most inspiring and enjoyable in the whole calendar, according to the Rev. W. S. Woodhull. A class meeting ticket used about seventy-five years ago, and a Church Discipline over one hundred years old will be exhibited tonight.

NO. 18 BIDS FEBRUARY 7

WORK WEST FROM BURLINGTON JUNCTION IS ADVERTISED.

TOTALS 4.305 MILES

Construction of New Road Out Of Floods' Reach Will Be Costly to State.

Bids will be received February 7 by the State Highway Commission at Jefferson City for grading of state highway No. 18, for a distance of 4.305 miles west of Burlington Junction, according to a notice received by The Democrat Forum from T. H. Cutler, chief engineer of the highway commission.

There are two projects in the proposed work. One project, 293-B, includes "grading and constructing culverts, together with any incidental work on the state road from Burlington Junction westwardly, the total length of the improvement being 2.850 miles." Project 293-A includes "grading and constructing culverts and bridges, together with any incidental work on the state road from Burlington Junction west, the total length of the improvement being 1.455 miles."

The two projects are being advertised in this week's Weekly Democrat-Forum.

This road project which will go over the low lands, west of Burlington Junction, was described recently as costing the state more than any other single project in Northwest Missouri. The road will be filled and a few new bridges built so as to prevent traffic from being blocked when rains cause an overflow.

As soon as the contract is signed, which will probably be in ten days from the time of the opening of the bids, work will start on the road. It probably will take several months to complete the work. All of the right-of-way for the road has been secured.

The feature of the weekly assembly at the State Teachers College this morning was the showing of a number of slides consisting of views of the State Capitol building at Jefferson City, and the famous sculpture and mural paintings in this structure.

These were sent by Dr. Pickard, University of Missouri, expressly to Miss Olive S. DeLuce, head of the art department of the State Teachers College here, who had them shown at assembly and explained each as it was flashed on the screen.

CONFESSES TO THEFT OF CAR

OHIO PRISONERS MAY BE HELD FOR BOY'S DEATH HERE.

UNDER CHANGED NAME

Driver of Machine in Wreck Near Ravenwood Admits Series of Robberies to Dayton Officers.

Richard Dalton, 30 years old, who is serving a sentence in jail at Dayton, Ohio, made a voluntary confession today of a series of crimes committed in the last two years, one being the wrecking of a car in which Everett Lee Still, 14-year-old son of Mike Still, of Maryville was killed on January 30, 1927, according to a dispatch in the Kansas City Times today.

The dispatch stated "Dalton in May, 1927, stole a motor car in St. Joseph, and picked up a 14-year-old boy, whose last name was Still. He wrecked the car and the youth was killed. Police say that the circumstances surrounding the death of the boy makes Dalton liable to a charge of manslaughter. When in St. Joseph he used the name of William Garrish.

"Dalton admitted holding up the Barbarian restaurant and hotel at Los Angeles, Dec. 7, 1927, and obtaining $175. The place is now owned by Jack Dempsey, ex-heavyweight champion."

The accident in which young Still was killed occurred four miles north of Ravenwood on Sunday, Jan. 30, 1927. In the car at the time it was wrecked were a Charles Dalton and Warren Hawk of St. Joseph, Mike Still and son, Everett, and Al Morrison, of near Ravenwood. Mike Still and Morrison were injured and brought to the St. Francis hospital in this city while Dalton and Hawk were not found until afterwards hiding in a box car at Conception Junction.

Dalton and Hawk were both arrested as they had stolen the car from F. B. Hassenbusch of St. Joseph on Jan. 29. They were turned over to the Buchanan County authorities a few days afterwards to face charges of stealing the car. Both of the boys at the time of their arrests here stated they were 18 years old while this dispatch gives Dalton 30 years old and gives his name as Richard.

The Democrat-Forum in their account of the accident said:

"With no apparent reason except that the car was going at an excessive speed and that the road was somewhat soft, Dalton, who was driving, lost control and the machine turned completely over two or three times, landing in the ditch with wheels in air.

"Dalton admitted at the jail, it was said, that he was driving fifty or sixty miles an hour at the time of the accident."

Latter Day Saints in Meetings at Arkoe

Services for Two Elders From Utah and Idaho to Be Conducted Tonight.

Elders John E. Litster of Fort Duchesne, Utah, and Carl M. Westerberg of Rigby, Idaho, missionaries of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints, have held three successful meetings in the Christian church at Arkoe, all of which have been well attended. The meetings will be concluded tonight.

On Sunday Elder Litster gave an outline of the articles of the father of the church and Elder Westerberg spoke on the topic, "Where We Came From, Why We Are Here and Where We Go After We Leave This Life."

Elders Litster and Westerberg sang a duet during the Monday evening service, "I Know That My Redeemer Lives." Elder Litster spoke on "Salvation for the Dead," and Elder Westerberg talked on the resurrection.

Their program last night consisted of a duet, "O, My Father;" Mr. Westerberg talked on "Apostasy," and Mr. Litster on the "Stick of Joseph."

TRUST DEED OF HOOVER'S IS RELEASED

Secretary of Commerce Is Paid Loan Secured by Eighty Acres of Land Near Graham.

A deed of release, signed by Herbert C. Hoover, Secretary of Commerce and possible Republican presidential candidate, was filed today with Jack Greeson, recorder of deeds.

The deed shows payment of a note for $11,000, for which an eighty acre tract of land, situated about five miles southeast of Graham, was given as security. The note was executed September 16, 1922, by Mr. and Mrs. John L. Collins. The release of the deed of trust was made in the district of Columbia, January 12, 1928.

The record books in the recorder of deed's office show that a man by the name of Edgar Rickard of New York City is the record owner of the land.

A notation to the deed of release, sworn to by Walter Freytag, banker at Graham, states that the note has been paid in full and was paid in full by Herbert C. Hoover or his agent and delivered to John L. Collins, but was lost or destroyed by Mr. Collins and not in possession of any person having lawful claim to it.

FIVE KILLED BY TORNADO

CHILDREN DIE WHEN TENNESSEE SCHOOL COLLAPSES.

THE TOLL MAY GROW

Storm Sweeps Across Kentucky Also. —Atlantic Coast Lashed by Gale, Two Vessels Sinking.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 25.—The tornado which swept through Central Tennessee yesterday took a known toll of four lives at Holms Creek, and injured eight others, two probably fatally, according to advice received here today.

The dead were killed when the Holms Creek rural school house collapsed.

Further casualties were feared in the affected area, however, although confirmation here was lacking because of destruction of telephone and telegraph lines, and blocking of highways by uprooted trees.

The Nashville Red Cross prepared today to forward food, clothing and medical supplies to the stricken area as soon as definite communication can be re-established. Automobiles loaded with supplies were held in readiness at headquarters here.

Property Damage Heavy.

Damage to property was believed heavy.

The Tennessee Central railroad system brought news of isolation and heavy damage near Monterey and Cockeville as connection with stations in that territory was re-established.

At Dripping Springs, six miles from Monterey, it was reported, three or four homes were blown over and wrecked by the tornado.

Trees were leveled by the wind at Monterey, and roads were described as almost impassable.

The tornado was reported to have struck the Holms Creek school at the height of afternoon classes.

One Dead in Kentucky.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 25.—A cyclone which swept across western Kentucky late yesterday killed one person, seriously injured another, and caused thousands of dollars damage.

The 3-year-old child of A. Price was killed in the collapse of the Price home. A schoolhouse in Ballard county was wrecked but none of the 30 pupils was hurt.

Homes Destroyed in Nashville.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 25.—Several houses were destroyed, and trees, telephone poles and wires were blown down when a high wind struck Nashvill yesterday.

No loss of life was reported.

Gale Hits New York.

New York, Jan. 25.—Gales which blew out window panes and demolished small structures in the suburbs last night were followed today by storm warnings from the weather bureau here for the Atlantic seaboard from the Delaware breakwater to Eastport, Maine.

The windstorm struck New York shortly after midnight, endangering shipping off the coast of the North Atlantic states.

CURTIS FOR A "DRY" PLANK

KANSAS' PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE MAKES FRANK ANSWER.

BUTLER MAY GET IN

Columbia University Head Declares Prohibition Repeal Is Outstanding Issue.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, an announced presidental candidate, favors strict enforcement of the Volstead law, he told Senator Borah today in a letter replying to Borah's question on that subject.

"While I have no desire to dictate what shall be in the next National Republican platform" Curtis said, "I personally favor a plank referring to the 18th Amendment and the laws enacted to carry it into effect, and I favor a plank pledging the nominee to a fair, vigorous and faithful enforcement of them.

"In my opinion it is the greatest moral issue of all ages and public sentiment demands that both political parties declare themselves unequivocally upon it.

"Should I be nominated and elected president, I favor meeting the issue squarely and I believe in the strict and energetic enforcement of the laws to carry out the constitutional amendment."

Curtis said he opposed a policy allowing the states to determine the alcoholic content of beverages and also opposed repeal of the 18th Amendment.

He told Borah that, as prosecuting attorney of Shawnee county, Kansas, from 1885 to 1889, he closed every saloon in the county within thirty days of his election and kept them closed during the four years he was in office.

"I believe in meeting the issue squarely in favor of faithfully enforcing all our laws," Curtis concluded, "and I am opposed to the repeal of the 18th Amendment or the Volstead Act."

Borah had announced he will ask all presidential candidates to make known their views on prohibition.

Dr. Butler May Get In.

New York, Jan. 25.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler was before the country today as a possible Republican presidential candidate, with prohibition and foreign affairs the chief planks of his platform.

The president of Columbia University spoke at a dinner of the New York Young Republican club last night and outlined his policies. Butler was introduced as one whose name might be brought up as a nominee at the Republican convention, but he did not declare himself in his speech.

Prohibition and foreign affairs will be the most important issues in the campaign, Butler told his audience.

"There are two matters which most deeply affect the life, the influence, the morals and even the government of the American people," he continued.

Charges Dodging of Issue.

Butler said the two parties had repeatedly dodged the prohibition issue and three possible ways of dealing with the eighteenth amendment remained.

"It may be enforced—theoretically at least; it may be nullified, or it may be repealed," he said.

"The eighteenth amendment may, and in my judgment should, be repealed in order that the American people may undertake a constructive and effective solution of the problems of the liquor traffic."

In his attack upon foreign policy in party issues, Butler said the subject was not the topic for partisan discussion but rather a matter for general public opinion.

"A nation's foreign policy should not rest upon party victory or temporary party predominance," he said. "There is no room for a Republican foreign policy or a Democratic foreign policy."

Butler praised the efforts of the administration to obtain treaties between the nations against war.

St. Joseph Bridge Bill Passes Senate

Washington, Jan. 25.—A House bill authorizing St. Joseph, Mo., to construct an interstate bridge across the Missouri river was passed today by the Senate and sent to the President for signature.

Fall Said to Be in Weakened Condition

Severe Cold Might Be Fatal, Friends Say.—Refuses to Comment on Sincair Payments.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 25.—The physical condition of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior and central figure in the teapot dome oil scandal, was said by associates today to be such that a serve cold might prove fatal.

Fall was asked to comment on testimony given yesterday before the Senate teapot dome investigating committee, linking him with large sums of money from Harry F. Sinclair.

He was more willing to talk about his health than the oil situation.

He said he planned to return to his ranch in New Mexico as soon as his health permitted.

AMOUNTS PAID TO FALL GROW IN OFFICIAL TESTIMONY.

HARD TO TRACE BONDS

Sinclair Only Man to Handle $8,000,000 Fund, Committee Is Told —Bankers Indefinite.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of interior, received a total of $409,000 from the men to whom he leased the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills naval oil reserve, according to sworn testimony.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The Teapot Dome committee ran into difficulties this afternoon when it attempted to trace the $3,000,000 profits of the mysterious continental trading company and the $233,000 which Harry Sinclair, oil man, advanced to former secretary of interior Fall shortly after Sinclair leased the naval reserve secretly from Fall.

The Sinclair books produced only that Sinclair himself personally handled $8,193,638 in liberty bonds and that he may be the only person who knows the serial numbers by which they could be traced.

Information Indefinite.

New York Bankers gave indefinite information about the liberty bond transactions of oil men supposed to have been involved in the Continental Trading Company deal.

Sinclair informed the committee today that he would readily furnish the committee the books of his Hyva corporation showing his private finances. Sinclair did not appear but Littleton said he would when wanted.

L. L. Stevens of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, told the committee Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the company, is in Havana and will not be able to appear before the committee immediately. Senator Walsh of Montana demanded Stewart's appearance within 36 hours—the time he thought it would require to come from Havanna.

Stevens replied that Stewart had made important business engagements in Mexico and was going there from Cuba.

New York Bankers Called.

Washington, Jan. 25.—New York Bankers were called by the Senate Teapot Dome committee today to trace about $1,000,000 in bonds which passed through their agencies in the name of H. M. Blackmer, missing oil trial witness.

Vague political rumors have spread concerning the disposition of securities and Senator Walsh of Montana, who is conducting the investigation, believes he can learn the identity of every person who received or handled them.

Walsh has ascertained that $233,000 of the bonds were given by Harry F. Sinclair, the oil man, to former Secretary of Interior, Fall, a short time after Fall leased the Teapot Dome Naval Reserve to Sinclair secretly in 1922.

Hidden Chapter Revealed.

M. T. Everhart, son-in-law of Fall, told that story to the committee late yesterday, piecing together a hidden chapter that government prosecutors and investigators have been seeking to get for three years.

Everhart, who has broken with Fall, readily told under subpoena how he got bonds from Sinclair and took them to Fall. Here is the story as he told it:

In May, 1922, (a month after Fall had leased Teapot Dome to Sinclair) Fall told Everhart they ought to re-

HICKMAN ASKS A NEW JUDGE

TRIAL HALTED BY A DEFENSE OBJECTION.

NO MORE THE "FOX"

Slayer of Marion Parker in Utter Despair as Insanity Hearing Is Begun.

Courtroom, Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 25.—The trial of William Edward Hickman for the murder of Marion Parker was halted suddenly at the very outset today by an unexpected defense move.

Jerome Walsh, chief defense attorney, offered an objection to Judge Carlos Hardy presiding at the trial.

Court was recessed until 2 p. m. to permit state and defense attorneys to confer on the question of a trial judge.

Walsh's objection was in the form of an affidavit contending that Judge Hardy was prejudiced in the case and could not give Hickman a fair trial.

Reserves Final Decision.

It was also contended that because he served as arraignment judge he was not qualified to hear the trial.

The white-haired jurist ruled to the contrary, but reserved final decision until late today as to whether he will vacate the bench.

Move Unexpected.

The defense move was altogether unexpected. Hickman's attorneys had indicated last night that they were ready for the trial to proceed.

"Judge Hardy has repeatedly shown himself to be prejudiced against my client," Walsh said.

"Judge Hardy stated in open court that we were going on a fishing expedition when we made the request to go back East to secure deposition from people who knew Hickman as a child and later as a high school student.

"He has admitted that he received numerous letters before the opening of the trial from various persons stating that in their opinion he should preside at the trial.

"We have reason to believe that these persons are also prejudiced.

"Hickman feels that Judge Hardy is against him. He told me he felt an antagonistic attitude on the part of the court from the very first day he entered this court room."

Walsh told the court that if another judge is appointed at once defense will be willing to proceed with the trial and gave assurance that the action was not intended to delay the proceedings.

Withdrawal Expected.

It was generally believed that Judge Hardy will have another judge appointed to try the case rather than to encounter the delay that would be involved in a legal scrap over whether he has the right to continue on the bench.

"If this affidavit had been presented in a Kansas City court the judge would have left the bench without question," Walsh declared.

The one issue in the trial was that of Hickman's sanity.

A jury will hear the evidence and the testimony of alienists for the state and the defense and then determine whether the youth is sane or insane.

If found sane, Hickman will be hanged for his crime. If found insane he will be sent to a state hospital for the criminally insane.

In Utter Despair.

Hickman was in a state of utter despair as the trial opened. He was haggard after sleepless hours last night spent in pacing the floor of his cell in the Los Angeles County jail.

"I'll swing," he told his guard as he as being led from the jail to the court room.

"I know I'll swing. I wish the whole thing were over now."

There was little left of the air of bravado with which he greeted his captors in Pendleton, Ore., barely a month ago and related to them the story of his crime.

Gone was his air of bravado, and in its place had come despondency. There was no suggestion of "The Fox" the sly, confident, kidnaper who terrorized Southern California for days.

More Rabbit Than Fox.

Rather, one thought of a rabbit,

NO PARKING IN CHICAGO.

Chicago reports that its new traffic plan of "no parking down town" is successful. There are no more cars lined up along the sides of business streets, reducing the driving space to a narrow lane and obstructing entrance to stores and offices. Because automobiles cannot be parked in that section, fewer are driven down town. So the streets are much clearer, with more room for motorists and pedestrians alike.

Private cars are allowed three minutes for "discharging their passengers," which looks like a liberal allowance. Cars that used to be kept down town are now left in designated parking places outside the Loop district, and busses run at five-minute intervals from there to the business section. Trucks, allowed 30 minutes for unloading, make trouble, and their time will probably be cut down.

All this is drastic but inevitable. The big cities are having to do it, and sooner or later the little cities may have to follow their example.

The business sections of average cities were not planned to take care of one or two motor cars per family, along with the families themselves; they do well if they accommodate the people without their cars. Cities planned in the future may be different.

As usual after some outstanding crime there is a wave of imitations over the country. Just now kidnaping and attempted extortion is the order of the day. When it dawns on weak minds that the Michigan kidnaper is already in the penitentiary and that Hickman is on the road to the gallows and that others will be caught and punished with equal dispatch, it won't look so good.

It costs more to run an automobile slowly through the traffic than it does to run at a good speed on an open road. Likewise it costs more to run a slow business than to run one at top speed. The man who saves by not advertising pays out several times the amount saved in increased percentage of overhead resulting from less business.

Senate to Decide on Wilson-Vare Contest

Washington, Jan. 25.—The Senate privileges and elections committee is to decide today whether it will dismiss the Wilson-Vare election contest or proceed to count the ballots from six disputed Pennsylvania counties.

For two days, laywers representing Senator-Elect William S. Vare and William B. Wilson, defeated candidate who protested the election, have been arguing their cases before the committee.

Wilbur, Under Fire, to Defend Navy Building

Washington, Jan. 25.—Secretary of Navy Wilbur was to be called on today to defend the proposed $800,000,000 Naval building program which has been under fire in both House and Senate.

He was to appear before the House Naval affairs committee to answer detailed questions regarding the proposed 71 new vessels of war, comprising a program that has been characterized as "madness" by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho and as "the height of criminal folly" by Representative Huddleston, Democrat, Alabama.

SALE OF NAVAL OIL TO BRITISH TO BE PROBED

Special Committee Named to Investigate Reports of Oil From Elk Hills to Royal Dutch Co.

Washington, Jan. 25.—A special naval committee has been designed by Secretary Wilbur to investigate reports that oil from the Elk Hills naval oil reserve, California, is being sold by the lessee, the Honolulu Consolidated Oil Co., to the Royal Dutch Shell Co., a British-controlled concern.

Recommendation to Congress "of such remedial legislation as may be desirable and necessary" will be considered by the committee, Wilbur announced.

"The question involved," Wilbur said, "is the disposition of oil from the naval reserve to foreign corporations, apparently for export to foreign countries."

Not Now Prohibited.

Existing legislation, he said, does not prohibit such sale and the navy desires a law to prevent sale of oil from naval reserves to foreign corporations.

According to reports to Wilbur, the Honolulu Company, which is producing oil under government lease at Elk Hills, has been selling its product, as well as Royalty oil purchased from the navy, to the Dutch Shell.

The Royal Dutch Shell is now engaged in a "trade war" with the Standard Oil Co., of New York, and the two concerns are in keen competition for available oil supplies in all parts of the world.

organize their debt ridden cattle lands in New Mexico and that he had "a party" who was willing to put up money and go in with them. The "party" was Sinclair.

Everhart went to Sinclair's private railway car here and got $198,000 in bonds. Later he went to New York and received $35,000 more.

Stock Never Transferred.

For this money Sinclair was supposed to be given a third interest in the cattle lands with Everhart and Fall. But the stock certificate never was made out in Sinclair's name and Fall borrowed money upon it at the Pueblo bank. Where it is now, Everhart said he did not know.

The company has never paid any dividends. Walsh is attempting to show the bond transaction was "part of the purchase price of a security of the interior."

Everhart revealed that Sinclair had lent Fall, without security, $36,000 in cash, which Everhart carried from Sinclair to Fall.

Thus, according to Everhart, Sinclair advanced $304,000 in bonds and cash to Fall. It has been established that E. L. Doheny, California oil magnate, left Fall $100,000, making $404,000 Fall received from the two oil men.

cornered in a hollow tree. He was fretful, impatient. A month ago he sneered. Today he whined.

Authorities were afraid he would muster enough courage to try to end his own life. Special jailers guarded his cell.

Hours before the session started, a steady stream of sensation seekers flowed into the hall of justice. There were many women, some were with children in their arms in the crowd.

Practically all the space in the little court room of Judge Hardy was taken by those actually connected by the trial and by newspaper representatives.

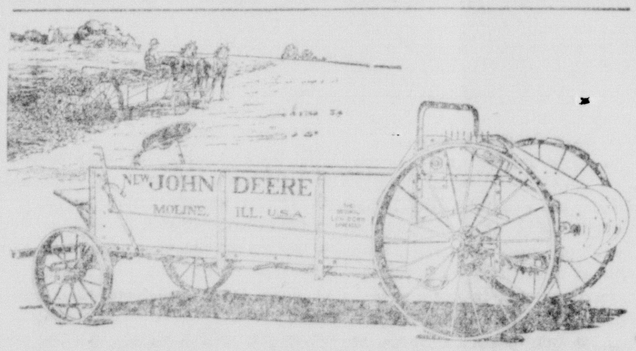
Disappointed at failures to get into the court room, the crowd lingered in the corridors of the hall of justice waiting for a glimpse of Hickman.

A Chance for Freedom.

If Hickman is found insane, confinement in an asylum will be the penalty. Under California law, an insane person can be liberated from an asylum if he proves himself sane at the end of a year, so Hickman had a possible chance for ultimate liberation if he was found insane.

The task of obtaining twelve men and women to state under oath that they can try Hickman fairly and impartially may consume several days.

Jurors who entertain scruples against the death penalty are disqualified from jury service. This is the first question Judge Hardy will ask when the jurors step into the box.



New John Deere Spreader Has Outstanding Features

You know about the John Deere Spreader with the beater on the axle—the spreader with the low-down, easy-loading box and draft-reducing high drive wheels. Now you can get these same labor-saving, light-running advantages in a three-beater, narrow type of spreader. It's the

NEW JOHN DEERE SPREADER
—The Spreader with the Beater on the Axle and the Box-Roll Turn

The combination of low box and high drive wheels means this to you: Easier pulling for the team; more loads spread per day, and a saving of labor in loading.

You will like the better work of this new spreader. Because the beaters are low down, near the ground, the manure is deposited in an even swath, beyond both drive wheels, before winds can blow it and cause drifting.

Simplicity and durability, both, are outstanding in the construction of this new spreader. It will save time, labor and money for years to come.

It is easier on the user, easier on the horses, it does better work and lasts longer. It gives you everything you have wanted in the spreader you buy.

Chicago Bank Rates Go Up; Stocks Slump

Elevation to 4% Marks Break From Uniformity.—Stocks Sold Heavily on New York Exchange.

New York, Jan. 25.—Stocks were subjected to heavy selling today on overnight news of the elevation of the Chicago bank rate to 4 per cent. This increase marked the first chance since the uniform charge of 3½ per cent was established throughout the federal reserve system last August.

Fears that the action at Chicago might be followed in New York in the next month or so were reflected by substantial declines in the principle trading stocks, steel, General Motors and other leaders experiencing sharp recessions from their recent highs, while wide open breaks occurred in specialties like Mathieson Alkali, Greene Cananea and International Nickel.

While feeble rallies developed at different stages during the day, they were not sustained. Further large offerings were thrown in the market in the late afternoon and new lows on the movement were reached in active issues.

Rockefeller Golfs Amidst Death Rumors

Reports at New York Stock Exchange That Aged Financier Had Died Are Proved False.

New York, Jan. 25.—A report that John D. Rockefeller had died was circulated on the floor of the New York stock exchange today.

The United Press correspondent at Ormond Beach, Fla., where John D. Rockefeller is spending the winter, was informed by Rockefeller's secretary that John D. had played golf as usual today.

Brokers were inclined to believe the report was fostered as an excuse for manipulation on a market already disturbed by the raising of the Chicago rediscount rate.

Friends Would Have Bryan Governor Again

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 25.—Charles W. Bryan was placed in nomination for governor of Nebraska on the Democratic ticket today by a petition signed by sixty-one residents of Lincoln and filed with Secretary of State Marsh.

MARINES HAUL UP SUPPLIES

AMERICAN TROOPS ACTIVE IN NICARAGUA.

SENATE PROBE ASKED

Resolution Would Have Relations of U. S. With Central American Countries Investigated.

Guatemala, Jan. 25.—Police dispersed 3,000 people who tried to parade through the city to show their sympathy with the Nicaraguan revolutionist General Augustino Sandino, whom American Marines are fighting. The attempted parade came after a mass meeting in Concordia Park.

Asks Central American Probe.

Washington, Jan. 25.—A resolution proposing that the foreign relations committee thoroughly investigate relations between this government and countries of Central and South America was introduced in the Senate today by Senator LaFollette, Wisconsin.

The resolution was proposed after the foreign relations committee had again delayed action on pending resolutions to authorize an inquiry into the Nicaraguan situation.

LaFollette's resolution proposed that $25,000 be appropriated for the inquiry and that at its conclusion the committee recommended "a constructive policy."

Marines Are Active.

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 25.—The greatest of activity by the American marines in Nicaragua was reported today.

Supplies and ammunition were hauled into the leon section over hazardous trails. All the bullcarts available have been pushed into service in taking the ammunition into the fighting section.

The few brief skirmishes already reported were with snipers detatched from the main body of General Sandino's forces.

Natives brought an explanation of these sniping groups, Colonel Gulick reported.

He said they informed him General Sandino had divided the main body of his army into small companies and had decided on guerilla warfare from now on.

Five Marines Killed.

The main body of the marines has been centered at Quilali. In capturing this center five marines were killed and 23 injured. No marine casualties have been reported since the Quilali engagement and the subsequent one at Sapotilla, where one marine was killed and five injured.

The rebel losses have been heavy. In bombing attack it was reported that 40 rebels were killed. Between 10 and 12 were reported killed or wounded in the last fw days. With other casualties in small engagements recently, it was believed more than 50 rebels had been killed.

Five Killed by a Tornado over the city, the gale passed northeastward along the shoreline and out to sea, whipping up the waters into huge waves.

In the New York harbor alone, the waves were the highest in the memory of marine officials. They dashed against the battery seawall so hard that spray was flung 40 feet in the air.

Two Vessels Sunk.

Two vessels were sunk in the harbor. One was the U. S. S. Dewey, historic gunboat captured by American naval forces in the Spanish-American war and named after their commander. It recently was bought from the government by private interests and was being dismantled in the Brooklyn docks. High waves swamped it.

The other boat was a 400 ton barge which went to the bottom when its seams ripped open while resting on the Brooklyn side of the harbor.

Atlantic Coast Lashed.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Rain and gale-like winds lashed the Atlantic coast last night and this forenoon, causing the coast guard to be especially alert for distress signals from smaller crafts.

The storm centered over Lake Erie.

Violent rains descended on the Capital last night.

Edward O. Leech, 47, clerk in the office of the Adjutant General of the Army, slipped while alighting from a street car and fell in front of another car. He was killed.

Leaves For Denver.

DENIES DEATH, DESPITE TWO TOMBSTONES

Government Wants to Know Where to Send Markers.—Veteran Says He Doesn't Need Them.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 25.—John E. Merriam, traveling salesman, has been declared dead by the War Department, he was informed today.

But Merriam isn't dead. He said so himself and he thinks Uncle Sam is a great "kidder."

Merriam was a sergeant of company D, 21st Kansas Infantry, during the Spanish-American war.

Notice of his death came in the form of a message to relatives explaining the delay in delivery of his tombstone.

Owing to a mishandling of the order, the notice said, two tombstones are awaiting disposition at Essex, N. Y. Both contain his name, company, regiment, date of service and death.

One of the stones will be shipped immediately after proper directions have been provided.

What concerns Merriam most of all, however, is not his "death" but fear that the pension he has been receiving for several years will be stopped by the government.

He could give no explanation why he should be declared dead. Merriam's home is in Boulder, Colo.

To Attempt Trip to Planet Venus, Alone

Robert Condit, Constructing a Mysterious Rocket, Rejects Offers of Company.

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 25.—Three venturesome travelers have been refused a seat in Robert Condit's proposed Miami Beach to Venus Rocket.

Condit explained he denied the requests for passage to the planet because he personally prefers to leave the earth alone.

The three applications were received from George Nemuth, Los Angeles, George De Mengin, St. Malo, France, and Arthur "Dare Devil" Fisher, Bloomington, Ill., Condit said.

Condit's Rocket is a matter of speculation here. He has refused to divulge its nature, but announced he expected to make his first 50,000,000 mile attempt the third week of February, when, he said, meteoric conditions will be best.

St. Louis Seeks to Become Air Center

Committee of 250 Business and Professional Men Formed to Give City Leadership.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 25.—A committee of 250 business and professional leaders has been formed here "to make St. Louis the air center of the United States," according to Harold M. Bixby, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

In addition to promoting the development of aviation in St. Louis, Bixby said, the committee will handle the arrangements for the "welcome home" reception to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on his return from Central America.

INFLUENCE OF U.S. ATTACKED

MEXICO LAUNCHES A FIGHT AT PAN-AMERICAN CONFERENCE.

WOULD LIMIT AIRWAY

American Proposal for Safeguarding Panama Canal Meets With Objection, However.

Havana, Jan. 25.—A fight to lessen the now dominant influence of the United States in Pan-American affairs was launched at the Pan-American conference today.

Salvador Urbina, Mexico, demanded before the Pan-American union committee that the union be made a symbol of the absolute equality of all American republics.

Urbina was explaining the Mexican proposal that chief officers of the union be elected annually in automatic rotation from the twenty-one member countries.

"Mexico wants to promote concord among the republics," he said. "We are seeking absolute equality for all."

Like Director's Work.

Gonzalo Zaldumbride, Ecuador, introduced a proposal under which the president and vice-president of the union's governing board would be determined in alphabetical succession instead of by annual election. But Zaldumbride praised highly the work as director general of L. S. Rowe, United States, and recommended that he remain continuously in office.

Plans of the United States to close certain air areaways as a safeguard to the Panama Canal, which caused spirited debate in the communications committee, now are before a special subsidiary group.

The proposals were made in the form of seven amendments to the Pan-American Union's air convention by Henry P. Fletcher, United States ambassador to Italy.

The principal modification was one permitting any two states which had signed the convention to agree on what areas should be prohibited to aircraft within the boundaries of their states. It was pointed out this measure could be taken either as a means for public safety or for military purposes.

Colombian Objects.

Dr. Enrique Olaya Herrera, president of the Colombian delegation, immediately opposed the suggestion. He said the amendment might be construed as permitting military alliances between neighboring states.

"Under the proposals of the United States delegation, there would be nothing to prevent any state from declaring its entire territory a prohibited area," Herrera told the United Press.

"There cannot be any international commercial aviation between North and South America if Panama and the Canal zone are closed areas for commercial planes. The vital point, according to my view, is that any agreement affecting commercial aviation between the two continents should recognize the right to take all precautions necessary for military protection, but these precautions should not go so far as to close the way for aircraft in peaceful transit."

A Heated Exchange at Flood Hearing

Chief of Army Engineers and Committee Chairman Clash—Army Plan Again Attacked.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The House control flood committee decided this afternoon in executive session to invite Major General Edgar Jadwin to return to finish his testimony, interrupted this forenoon when he refused to answer a question of Chairman Reid. The committee voted confidence in Reid.

Washington, Jan. 25.—A heated exchange took place at the House flood control committee session today between Major General Edgar Jadwin, chief of army engineers and Chairman Reid of the committee, over what Reid regarded as an intimation by Jadwin that the committee had suppressed information about flood control projects.

A brief by Governor Sampson, Kentucky, filed today with the committee, attacked the army engineer's flood control plan as "incomplete and impractical." Sampson insisted that many communities would be unable to meet the provision for local contributions in control work, resulting in failure to construct at some points.

This, he suggested, would make the control system "a chain which is no stronger than its weakest link."

Representative Cochran, Democrat, of Missouri, told the committee the 1927 floods have resulted in a considerable amount of unemployment in his state.

H. S. Girl Reserves Installs Officers

Freshman-Sophomore Group Has Elaborate Ceremony.—Junior-Senior Organization Also Meets.

The freshman-sophomore Girl Reserves met today at the high school. The roll call was taken and minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary. The chairs for the installation were arranged in two semi-circles on each side of the sponsor's table. Effective lighting was produced by candles arranged in the form of a triangle, the emblem of the Girl Reserve, on the sponsor's table. The processional march was played by Laura J. Murdock. The processional was led by Viola Henderson. The retiring officers took their places on one side of the table while the new officers took their places on the other. Each officer carried an unlighted candle. The retiring president, Virginia Lucas, started the lighting of the candles. The scripture was then read by the sponsor, Miss Loretta Jones. Next a prayer was led by Miss Jones. The installation speech was also given by Miss Jones. After this came the speeches of the retiring officers, each one lighting the candle of the new officer to higher place. Then came the speech of the new president, Ada Hood. A talk on the responsibilities of officers was then given by Miss Jones. The closing prayer was led by Miss Jones.

The junior-senior Girl Reserve organization also met this morning. The program consisted of the reading of poems by famous poets after an introductory sketch of the writers had been made.

COWS RETURN $14.51 MONTH

COW TESTER'S REPORT SHOWS THAT AVERAGE.

SOME HIGH PRODUCERS

Eighteen Give Over 40 Pounds Butterfat.—Three Yield More Than 1,000 Pounds Milk.

Members of the Nodaway County Testing Association received an average return of $14.51 during the month of December from each cow tested, according to the monthly report just completed by Alfred Zulauf, tester.

Mr. Zulauf reported that there are 223 cows in the Association and that he tested 177 during the last month. Forty-six were dry. The feeding cost per cow was reported at $6.93 for the period making a profit of $7.58 above feding cost.

The tester said that one new member was added during the month. He was J. B. Robinson, Jr., northwest of Maryville.

Eighteen of the Association cows produced over 40 pounds of butter fat, three cows gave more than 1,000 pounds of milk and the average production per cow was 391 pounds of milk and 20.1 pounds of butterfat.

One member purchased a purebred dairy bull, which was from a tested dam.

The State Teachers College had the highest producing herd during December, the report showed. Fourteen Jersey cows made an average of 626 pounds of milk and the average butterfat was 31.8.

The other four high ranking herds were as follows:

E. E. Saunders, Jersey, nine cows; average milk, 569; average fat, 29.9.

J. T. Wells and Son, Jersey, thirty cows; average milk, 492; average fat, 26.6.

E. C. Moberly, Jersey, eleven cows; average milk, 498; average fat, 26.5.

Hints and Helps for Farmers

by Ross J. Fleetwood County Extension Agent

At the present time there is probably no other legume which fits all types of farms and farming as red clover does. It is a good soil builder, not so good as sweet clover, but better than soybeans; makes a good hay, better than sweet clover but not so good as alfalfa and makes a fair pasture.

Red clover fits well into a rotation and in general will grow well on most soils. It is not so sensitive to an acid soil as is sweet clover, but is very sensitive to a deficiency of phosphorus. Most Nodaway county soils, especially those formed rather extensively, are low in phosphate and where red clover is to be seeded in the oats crop this spring, excellent returns can be secured by applying 150-200 pounds of acid phosphate per acre at the time of seeding.

The fertilizer will increase the yield of the oats but the big increase will come in the clover crop following.

Sweet clover is so sensitive to sour soils that it is risky business seeding it on lands which have not been tested for acidity. If the soil shows acidity upon being tested it will be better to sow red clover or a mixture of red and sweet clover if it is not practical to lime the field at this time.

Prosperity Conference Feb. 15.

The third annual clover and prosperity conference is to be held in Maryville February 15. Bad weather has interfered with the success of both the previous meetings to such an extent that the clover and prosperity conference in Nodaway county never has taken the important place that it is filling in some of the other counties. It is undoubtedly time that maintenance of soil fertility is one of the biggest if not the biggest problem before Nodaway county farmers. A conference of this nature, where a definite program can be worked out, will prove of great value.

In some of the Ozark counties where the clover and prosperity work has been going in good shape for four or five years the soil program of whole counties has been changed from a soil destroying program to a soil building program. Nodaway county soil is not as depleted in fertility as is the soil of some Missouri counties but there is every reason to believe that this will happen unless concerted action is taken to improve conditions.

90 Eggs to Pay Hen's Expenses.

I was very much interested in an article in a popular farm paper in regard to the poultry flock of a man in Green county, Mo. This man trapnests all his hens and keeps accurate records. He figures that it takes 90 eggs from a hen to pay her expenses for the year. All the eggs above 90 per hen are profit. Figuring in this way one hen that lays 290 eggs per year is just as profitable as 200 hens that lay only 91 eggs per year and undoubtedly the labor of caring for her would be much less than for the 200.

It is obvious that it is practically impossible for the average poultry keeper to have 290-egg hens but in the same ratio as the above a hen who laid 190 eggs per year is as profitable as 100 hens laying 91 eggs per year. It is not impossible to have 190 egg hens and a small flock of 190-egg hens will bring much more profit than a large flock of hens which lay only a few eggs above the cost of their keep. Therefore it would seem that in many flocks in order to increase profits, the problem is not one of increasing the size of the farm flock with the attendant increase in equipment, but a problem of keeping possibly fewer birds which are bred to lay. Keeping a smaller number of better hens enables one to house better and feed better.

MAKES $84.98 ON ONE SOW AND 7 PIGS

George Epperson Gives Figures on Project Carried Out as Part of School Work.

Another student of Maryville high school who has found vocational agriculture a paying course of study is George Epperson, who made $84.98 from a swine production project. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Epperson, southwest of Maryville.

George purchased a pure bred Poland-China gilt from Roland Thomas, breeder of Poland-China hogs. He paid $40. In March the gilt farrowed seven pigs.

It was fed a ration of corn, oats, skimmed milk and alfalfa meal, and kept in a pasture separate from other hogs.

George's expenses totaled $121.27. He spent $105.22 for feed, $11.85 for labor, $2.70 for vaccination, allowed $1.50 for depreciation.

His receipts show: Poland-China sow, $40; Poland-China boar, $31; three Poland-China gilts, $26.50 each; Poland-China barrow, $23.75; gilt, $22. The total is $196.25. His total net profit was $74.98 plus $10 which he paid himself for labor, making his total income from the project $84.98.

George produced pork in his project at 8 cents a pound.

He lost but one pig out of the litter and suffered no depreciation on the sow.

The project proved a paying investment, but it was no more any other boy might do under similar circumstances," Elmer R. Coats, agriculture instructor said.

"The interest of the parents was very satisfactory and George himself took a lively interest in the project. He was a member of the livestock judging team that went to Columbia last spring.

Springfield Plans Improvements.

Springfield—Public improvements made or contracted for by this city during 1927 called for an expenditure of $506,633, exclusive of those being made under the $855,000 bond issue voted last spring.

Farmers Elevator at Barnard Passes $200,000 Mark in 1927

The Farmers elevator of Barnard, under the management of Ray Davis, showed a gross business for the year of 1927 of $201,782.56, an increase of $22,337.26 over the year of 1926. The Guilford branch, under the management of Harry Hunt, showed a gross business of $68,532.94. The business of the Barnard exchange after all expenses were charged off showed a net profit of $3,877.14 and the Guilford branch showed a net profit of $440.51 which was considered extra good under the prevailing conditions.

The report of the Barnard Exchange shows that they paid out in 1927 for eggs $28,745.63; for poultry, $10,666.58 and for cream $16,007.52. This was considered very good as these side line products from the farm brought into the community through the one firm more than $55,400,00.

Thirty-six stockholders were present at the Elevator January 14 and the following directors were elected: Charles Armstrong, W. F. Hartman, W. D. Burns, W. H. Goforth and Bert Hubbell.

The report of the year's business was read by Mr. Davis, showing a larger amount of sales and purchases for the past year.

The report showed that the Guilford branch, which was bought by the Barnard Exchange and operated by them since January 3, 1927, amounted to $68,532.94.

In the Barnard Exchange, a sinking fund of 10 per cent was set aside and a stock dividend of 8 per cent was declared on the stock and a reserve set aside for doubtful accounts. The balance was voted to be paid out in patronage dividends to club members on business they have transacted with the company during the year which will amount to about two cents on each dollars worth of business bought and sold during the year.

There will not be any patronage dividend on the Guilford business this year as it will be put in a reserve for working capital at that place and if in the future the farmers of Guilford reorganize it probably will be turned over to them as a fund to start the new company.

A sepcial report on the trucking business was made, which showed there was paid out since the purchase of the first truck in April, 1924, to January 1, 1928, $1677.48 and during that time received as income from truck after all expenses of gas, oil and repairs have been deducted, $6,295.35.—Barnard Bulletin.

FARM RELIEF IN A MUDDLE

HOUSE SUPPORTERS WOULD AGREE ON COMPROMISE.

POLITICS PLAYS PART

Insistence in Senate on McNary-Haugen Bill Helps Lowden and Dawes Candidacies.

By Thomas L. Stokes.
United Press Staff Correstondent.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Cross currents of politics, presidential and otherwise, are causing confusion of strategy among supporters of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill in Congress and out.

Always bound up more or less with political considerations, farm relief legislation is developing a situation today that undoubtedly will affect the presidential candidacies of Secretary of Commerce Hoover, former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, Vice-President Dawes and others, as well as the present members of Congress.

House Fears a Veto.

Every member of the House is up for re-election this fall. That explains, in part, the rapid growth of a House compromise farm relief movement. Seeing inevitable veto of the McNary-Haugen bill if it is passed again, members do not want to go back to their farmer constituents with no relief legislation at all. This view has so far crystallized in the House that passage of a compromise farm relief bill now seems very likely.

Only one-third of the senators are up for re-election. Not many are from farm sections, consequently Senate farm leaders are urging a different sort of strategy, which is backed by the farm organizations—passage again of the McNary-Haugen bill—equalization fee and all—and then attempted passage over a veto if President Coolidge withholds his approval.

Whether successful or not, this strategy, it is pointed out, might result in a situation favorable to Lowden and Dawes, presidential aspirantius championing the McNary-Haugen bill, and might militate against the chances of Hoover, administration candidate. This policy, it is further explained, might stop any movement in the convention to "draft" President Coolidge in case of a deadlock.

Proposes Senate Action.

In line with this strategy, farm leaders have approached Senator McNary of Oregon, co-author of the disputed bill, with the suggestion that the Senate pass the measure first and throw responsibility upon the House. But McNary so far has turned it down.

Others suggest passage of the McNary-Haugen bill and, if President Coolidge vetoes it, passage of a compromise measure. This would react favorably upon members up for re-election, and at the same time, by giving farmers some relief, might take some of the wind from the sails of the McNary-Haugen presidential aspirants.

If the House passes a compromise measure and the senate the McNary-Haugen bill, leaving the atmosphere very much clouded, the political strategists in these various camps then will face a very difficult situation in bringing any sort of bill out of the middle.

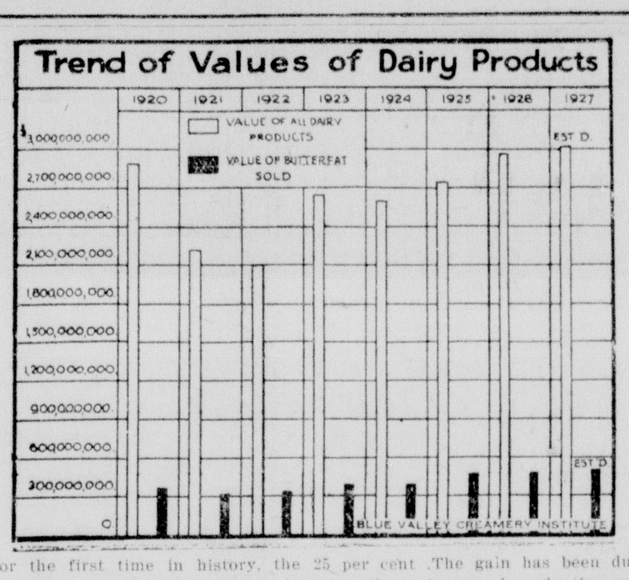
To Hold Meetings in Blackman District

Elmer R. Coats to Conduct Series of Instructive Discussions of Farm Topics.

Elmer R. Coats, instructor of vocational agriculture at the Maryville high school has made plans with Miss Pauline Ringold, teacher of the Blackman school, to call a community meeting in that district sometime next week. The plan is to conduct a series of community meetings for a period of six weeks. During these meetings local farm problems will be discussed.

Several of the farmers in that community have expressed a desire for such a series of meetings.

Liberty—Approximately 65 persons will be employed in the new underwear factory to open here soon.



For the first time in history, the gross value of all dairy products in the United States in 1927 probably will exceed $3,000,000,000 and the value of butterfat sold also promises to be the largest on record. The total value of dairy products has increased nearly 50 per cent from 1922 to 1927, while the gain in butterfat for the same five years has been 54 per cent.

Since 1921, the amount of creamery butter produced has increased 40 per cent and milk production has increased 25 per cent .The gain has been due primarily to increased production per cow rather than to an increase in the number of cows.

There has been a gain in the total number of consumers, but the rate is equal to only about half the gain in milk production. Due to the spread of dietetic education, there has been a marked increase in the per capita consumption, which has made possible the absorption of dairy products without lowering prices.

PERSHING FOR FARM RELIEF

GENERAL MAKES PLEA IN KANSAS CITY ADDRESS.

URGES BARGE LINES

Agriculture Induced to Over-Produce During War, He Says.—Railways Over-Burdened.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 25.—General John J. Pershing pleaded for farm relief today and recommended a barge line service on principal rivers to provide adequate, cheap transportation of agricultural and other products.

He made his plea at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon here. He said no measures have been taken to relieve the farmers of over-production that was urged on them during the war.

"Agriculture," he said, "must not be permitted to decline as compared to other industries. And yet for lack of just consideration of his (the farmer's) situation, we see him staggering under an excessive load of debt. Fair play shudders at the weakening of this basic industry and the consequent possible recession in the quality of citizenship of our agricultural element.

For Water Transportation.

There is another important question in this discussion that remains to be considered, and that is how to provide economical transportation to market for the products of both agriculture and industry.

"The building of the Panama Canal has tended to isolate the rich Central area of the country, and agriculture, mining, manufacturers and commerce among 40,000,000 of people are handicapped by the difference in rates between water routes and railways. The obvious remedy is to open our water courses to the sea through which the farmer and the manufacturer may have more economical access to the seaboard and also to adjacent home markets. Along with the vital problem of flood control, which it is hoped will be handled in Congress without political bickering, full consideration should therefore be given to the equally important question of waterways improvement."

Railways are overburdened, Pershing said, as he forecast benefits to be had from barge lines on the great middle western rivers and their tributaries.

THINK TRUCK GARDEN WILL YIELD $300,000

Florida Patch of 1,160 Acres Is Manned by 100 White and 200 Negro Workers.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 25.—A truck garden of 1,160 acres manned by 100 white and 200 negro workers, located within a few miles of Miami, is producing fresh winter vegetables in such quantity for markets all over the country that its estimated income for the winter season is placed between $300,000 and $400,000. This huge garden is owned and operated by the Pennsylvania Sugar Company, northwest of Hialeah, in fertile soil reclaimed from the Everglades.

Acres of beans, potatoes, onions, peppers, tomatoes, and other vegetables were ready for marketing in late December and will continue to supply carloads of produce for northern shipping throughout the winter months. When production is at its height, it is expected that 12,000 crates of potatoes will be dug weekly, 20,000 bunches of carrots, besides many hampers of turnips, beets, eggplant, radishes, celery, spinach, squash and cabbage.

Thirty tractors were used in plowing the land. Considerable assistance also was given by horses.

Perhaps the most important development of this immense truck farm is its demonstration of the success of the plan of water control. Farming in the Everglades is not entirely a question of drainage but also irrigation, and this problem has been solved by a series of pumps forcing water either on or off of the units into which the farm is divided.

Ray County Banks Gain.

Richmond—Ray County banks have deposits of $2,933,873, approximately $180,000 more than was on deposit one year ago.

BUTTERMAKER IS EMPLOYED

GEORGE HEMSHROT COMING TO RAVENWOOD FROM NORTH.

PLAN START BY APR. 1

Date for Reception of Bids for Plant Not Yet Decided, However.

The Ravenwood Co-Operative Creamery has employed George Hemshrot of Silver Creek, Minn., as buttermaker for the Ravenwood creamery, which is expected to be in operation by April 1, according to Clarence Shunk, one of the directors of the creamery.

Mr. Hemshrot is expected to arrive at Ravenwood to supervise building operations. As yet, the board of directors had not decided upon the date to receive bids for the construction of the creamery.

J. S. Casteel has been elected president of the board of directors and G. B. Loomis vice-president. Other members of the board are E. E. Saunders, J. W. Powell and Mr. Shunk.

Mr. Shunk, Mr. Casteel, Mr. Saunders and Mr. Powell returned last Wednesday from a trip to several towns in Missouri where co-operative creameries are operated, to get ideas as to how they are operated and the machinery used. They visited creameries at Cameron, Carrollton, Marshall, Sweet Springs, Alma and Concordia.

Twelve thousand dollars has been subscribed toward the Ravenwood creamery, a sufficient amount to build a creamery of the type to be operated there.

THE STORY THUS FAR

The story is laid in the Indian territory and along the Kansas border in the '80's, when a fight was being waged by the "Boomers" for the opening of the territory to settlement.

Chief of characters are:

TONY HARRISON, orphaned at 13 when his father was murdered in a poker game;

PAWNEE BILL, adventurer, Indian interpreter and showman;

JOE CRAIG, who takes Tony to the Bar K ranch to live;

TITUS MOORE, owner of the Bar K;

RITA MOORE, his little tomboy daughter.

When Tony is 15, Rita and her mother depart for Virginia and the boy learns for the first time how much he cares for the little red-haired, arrogant miss.

Word is received months later that DAVID PAYNE, leader of the "Boomers," and chief agitator for the opening of Oklahoma, is dead. Pawnee Bill is one of Payne's sympathizers, and so is Tony, although his benefactor, Titus Moore, opposes the opening with all his might. When Pawnee Bill goes out the following year with a wild west show he takes Tony along, and when the boy returns Rita is back.

CHAPTER XXIX.

They sang together, Rita's clear soprano sounding above the rest, her nimble fingers plinking fancy little runs on the guitar.

Tony Harrison felt the old loneliness creeping on him. They all looked so happy, so care-free, there beneath the moon. And he was desolate. Tomorrow she would be gone, and he worse off than before, the brief sight or her having been like the tearing of an old wound.

"Away out west where the tall grass grows,
Goodby, my lover goodby;
I met my little prairie rose,
Goodby, my lover, Goodby."

If only the others would get up and leave him and Rita alone. . . But there they sat, without a care in the world, and Mrs. Moore, a satisfied smile on her lips, doubtless contemplating with relief their return to the east.

He fancied that Mrs. Moore had been rather suspicious of him lately. Could it be that she had guessed his secret? And if that were so, what must she be thinking as she sat there listening to the singing?

Craig was improvising:

"I know a girl named Rita Moore,
Goodby, my lover goodby;
And she'll have sweethearts by the score,
Goodby, my lover, Goodby."

There was loud applause, especially from Titus Moore, who beamed happily and commanded each of the men in turn to try his hand at paraphrasing.

"I always did want to be a poet," Craig confessed. "I reckon all I needed was the inspiration."

Some of the attempts at impromptu verse were ludicrous, but Tony lay back with his hands beneath his head and gazed at the stars. When his turn came and Titus Moore called on him, he begged off. The colonel, knowing his shyness, did not insist.

When Rita left the next morning she asked him to write to her. "And tell me all about Cherokee, Tony." Her hand lingered in his a moment. "Are you going out with another show this fall?" she asked.

He thought so.

"Well, be sure to tell me if you meet your fate," she said mischieviously. "Are you sure Pawnee Bill is a good chaperon?"

He smiled. "He needs one himself. He's sure in love—at least he was when I left him.

A few weeks later he encountered Pawnee Bill in Caldwell and was informed that arrangements had been completed for the tour with Buffalo Bill.

"The show opens in New York and is booked right across the continent to San Francisco. Like to go along? It's not an ordinary wild west; it's a dramatic show. I can get you a part if you want it."

"I don't care much what I do; it's just the idea of going somewhere."

Pawnee Bill nodded. "Sure; that's the way it struck me at first, but now I'm trying to learn the business. In a couple more years, if I have any luck, I'll have my own outfit."

A week later Tony left the Bar K going with the young showman to Pawnee to round up his Indians. The show had two names: "Buffalo Bill's Dutchman" and "Buffalo Bill's Prairie Waif." Colonel Cody himself was with it only a short time, an actor named Matt Snyder playing the part of Buffalo Bill after the first few weeks.

Tony's admiration for his long-haired friend increased as the weeks speed by. He never ceased to marvel at the other's complete authority over the Pawnee Indians. At the slightest suggestion of trouble within their ranks, a word from Pawnee Bill was sufficient to restore order, except when an offender had been indulging in too much fire-water and was impervious to reasoning, and on those occasions their white leader handled the situation like a general.

Tony learned that the Indians regarded Pawnee Bill as a white chief. "Other showmen have gone down to Pawnee and tried to get them," he told young Harrison proudly, "but they wouldn't move an inch. They've even offered them twice as much as I get for them. Some day, I guess, I'll be getting in wrong with the government for taking them without permission from Washington, but until I do I'll keep right on. Washington thinks the red men shouldn't be exploited in the show business, but the Pawnees like it and they can pick up some money at it, so where's the harm."

Letters kept coming to Pawnee Bill, bearing a Philadelphia post mark. All doubt as to the seriousness of the man's love affair had vanished from Tony's mind; yet he wondered how his friend could be contemplating marriage in the near future at the rate he was spending his money.

For both of them were spending it as fast as they got it. They had found much to do with their time in New York and had got in the habit of patronizing restaurants where the food was notable and the wine even better. There were long stretches in the journey across the continent where both of them ate sparingly and at cheap lunch-counter places, that they might be able to live in style when they struck the next big city.

In San Francisco they were both in their glory. Along the bay they found restaurants that were better than New York's, and at night many of these were lively with music and women. Tony threw himself into the new life with a grim recklessness. They were in San Francisco two weeks, and more than once during their stay he cashed checks drawn on the little bank in Caldwell.

He fell into the habit of gambling. It began with little poker games between members of the troupe, to pass the time away between jumps; but once he caught the fever the stakes in these games became too small for him and in San Francisco he sought gambling halls where the limit was near the roof. He played poker, roulette, faro, chuck-a-luck, spending most of his time at the wheel.

Not yet 19, he looked like a full-grown man. He kept himself scrupulously clean-shaven in a day when most men favored a mustache, but beneath the tan his chin showed blue from the heavy beard under the skin.

He was tall and straight and broad of shoulder and walked with the free, swinging gait of the plainsman. "You are getting to look more and more like your daddy every day," Pawnee Bill told him. "If you were an inch shorter and ten years older I'd swear it was Jeff Harrison."

Like his father, too, he was impassive at the gambling tables. He accepted his losses with equanimity and his winnings with cool indifference. But mostly they were losses; his luck was good at poker and poor at roulette and he stuck stubbornly at the wheel.

A check came back from the bank in Caldwell, and with it a word of advice from John Nyce. He refused to acknowledge it, but wrote to Joe Craig, ordering him to transfer his savings, for which Craig was trustee, to an open checking account.

Craig, when he read the letter, shook his head but wisely obeyed orders and said nothing to Titus Moore. "Having his fling, I guess," he mused. "Well, I haven't set him what you'd call a thrifty example. Sergeant," he said to his horse, "you and I are betting that he has sense enough to know when to stop." But his heart was a little heavy.

Two nights before they left San Francisco, Pawnee Bill saw Tony Harrison knock a man into unconsciousness with one punch. They had gone into one of the numerous gambling halls and Tony had stepped up to the roulette wheel to lay a bet. A large crowd was gathered around the layout and as the young man moved up another man stepped in front of him and elbowed him out of the way.

Harrison's eyes blazed with anger. Without a word he grabbed the offender by the arm and swung him around. Pawnee Bill tried to take the fight off his hands. "If you haven't any manners I'll teach you some," he cried and stepped between the two.

But Tony was not to be denied. "I'm aiming to do that myself," he said quietly. "Step out of the way," he ordered the man who had elbowed him.

The man jerked his arm from Tony's grasp. "Sure," he said, and swung his heavy fist.

The youth ducked. "Just for that you get it," he cried between his clenched teeth, and sent the other crashing to the floor with a blow to the jaw.

The ill-mannered one did not move. Several men bent over him and one dashed cold water in his face. Some who appeared to be his friends turned hostile stares on Tony and his long haired friend and there were a few muttered threats.

But these failed to stampede the pair. "If anybody else wants a lesson in manners," Pawnee Bill pronounced calmly, "we'll try to accommodate."

There was no further trouble; cooler heads intervened and presently the fallen man was sufficiently revived to get up and walk out. Tony insisted on finishing what he had started. When he and Pawnee Bill left the place he had won two hundred dollars at roulette.

But later that night Pawnee Bill had a word of admonition. "You'd better slow down a little, son; we're both of us moving a trifle too fast. Hereafter I'm going to be a regular model of propriety and start saving my money."

(To be Continued)

An old enemy, Tom Benton, appears in the next installment, and Craig gets the worst of it.

650 Persons File Out in Orderly Manner, While Music and Movies Go On.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 25.—A fire which caused $100,000 damage started in the Isis Theater here last night. Six hundred and fifty people were in the theater at the time. Ten small boys and a girl were carried by firemen to safety from the smoke-filled office rooms above the theater. No one was injured.

Mickey Gross, manager of the theater, saw a spark ignite the stage curtain. He walked to the front of the theater and told the audience that wasn't a part of the program, and for them to march out as orderly as possible.

The audience filed out with as little confusion as possible while the organist, William Ganz, played a military march. The movie operator continued to reel off the picture until the last spectator was out of the door.

The theater is owned and controlled by the Midland Theater Company.

To Electric Chair Consoling His Father

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 25.—Shortly before Ben Fowler, veteran of the Argonne Forest campaign, died in the electric chair today for the murder of Dr. W. W. Foust, he turned to his aged father, patted him on the back, and said:

"Just go on out now, pap, like you was goin' to mill or some'ers. Tell Maw I'm just agoin' on ahead, and tell the others I'll be waiting' for 'em in Heaven."

Fowler was convicted for the slaying of Dr. Foust, whose laughter in a motion picture theater irritated him while in a drunken rage. Later he killed a deputy sheriff who sought to arrest him for the Foust murder. He was believed responsible for at least four other murders.

Married But Once, Yet She's Bigamist

Portland, Ore., Jan. 25.—Oregonians have just learned that it is possible to be a bigamist in this state although only married once.

This interesting status was illustrated in court when a woman was sued for divorce by a man to whom she had never been married. He sought a child which had been born to the pair.

The woman, having married another man, learned that under Oregon law, the arrival of a child to an unmarried couple who are living together constitutes a common law marriage contract.

Therefore, the woman who has gone through but one marriage ceremony will have to divorce her common law husband or else she, under Oregon law, has two husbands.

Sedalia Banker Freed.

Marshall, Mo., Jan. 25.—A directed verdict of not guilty was ordered in the case of Emil L. Zoernig, former president of the defunct Farmers and Mechanics Savings Bank of Sedalia, charged with third degree forgery in connection with the bank's failure.

Judge Reynolds held the evidence was insufficient to submit to the jury and dismissed the case. Other charges against Zoernig will be heard at the May term.

Final Grain Review.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—All grains were weak on the Chicago board of trade today and the trend was steadily downward in a quiet and featureless session.

The wheat session was dull with prices drifting lower and little support afforded. Lower Liverpool cables indicated that the Argentine and Australian crops are beginning to come into active competition with the Canadian surplus. Export demand was flat, foreign importers awaiting still lower prices when southern hemisphere shipments begin to arrive in large quantities. The southwest still reported danger to winter wheat from drought and lack of snow covering. Receipts here were 8 cars and cash wheat was half cent lower.

Cold, clear weather over the belt sent corn into a steady decline. Despite small receipts here and light bookings of offerings to arrive, traders believe generally that the movement of country marketings will get well under way this week if weather continues. The few bulls who were not in accord with general sentiment were too cautious to risk a decided stand while the market is in so unsettled a condition. Receipts here totalled 296 cars. Cash corn was ½c to 1 lower.

Oats declined steady, trailing along with other grains and exhibiting no activety of its own. Receipts were 35 cars and the cash market dropped ½c.

All grains went into another sharp decline just after mid-session and further losses were added to those of the opening. Corn broke and lost one cent while wheat and oats followed with fractional declines.

Final figures: Wheat ⅝ to ⅞c off; corn, off, 1⅛ to 1½c; oats, ¾ to ⅞c lower; provisions closed lower.

LOCAL HIGH CAGERS BEAT WORTH, 28 to 12.

RUSSELL HIGH SCORER

Maryville Forward Gets Six Field Baskets.—to Play Bethany Here Friday.

And still the old yell, "You can't beat Maryville High," holds good. Last night the Spoofhounds won again, this time over the Worth cagers. Maryville was on the long end of a 28 to 12 score.

Neither team could locate the basket with any degree of accuracy and at the end of the first quarter Maryville led, 8 to 4. In the next quarter the Worth cagers held Maryville to a lone field basket while they added five points to bring them within one point of Maryville, trailing at the end of the half 10 to 9.

In the third quarter Russell, Maryville forward scored four field baskets in rapid succession. These, with two in the first half, made him high-point man of the game with twelve points. In the fourth quarter with a substantial lead, Coach Croy sent in fresh men. Coach McPherson, not to be outdone, also sent in a string of substitutes.

Starting the second half, Wilson, Maryville forward failed to report to the official scorer and Worth was allowed a free throw on a technical foul. Shortly after this, Wilson was removed from the game by Coach Croy.

Russell was free many times in the Spoofhound corner of the court but was not given the ball. In addition to this playing a good game offensively, not many men got past him while on the defense.

McMurry used his height to a good advantage for the Maryville team and picked many shots off the backboard. Hahn also was a great help in this department of the game. Murdock, Worth captain, was the opposition's main offensive cog, though he passed to teammates mostly. W. Pringle and Combs were high scorers for Worth. The Spoofhounds will play Bethany here Friday night.

Sharkey Agrees to Meet Johnny Risko

Second of Heavyweight Elimination Bouts to Take Place in New York March 12.

Boston, Jan. 25.—Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, will meet Johnny Risko, Cleveland, Ohio, in New York on March 12 in Tex Rickard's elimination tournament.

Announcement that the Lithuanian had signed for a 15-round bout with Risko came only a few hours after Sharkey had declared he would fight no one except Tunney or Dempsey.

In revealing that he had accepted the offer of Jess McMahon, Rickard's match-maker, John Buckley, Sharkey's manager, explained:

"Delaney refused to meet Risko in 15 rounds. I signed to show them Jack isn't afraid to meet Risko or anyone else in 15 rounds."

Buckley said he had been assured by Rickard that if Sharkey eliminated Risko the Boston heavyweight "would be given first crack at the championship."

Tris Speaker Given His Release Outright

Washington, Jan. 25.—Tris Speaker has been given his unconditional release from the Washington American League baseball club, effective February 1, President Clark Griffith wired here from Tampa today.

Though he had a fairly good season with the Washington Club last season, Speaker had been asked by Griffith to accept a radical reduction in salary. When he bucked, his release followed.

Nothing definite has come from various rumors that Speaker had been negotiating for a minor league managership.

PREPARES FOR CAPE CONTEST

COACH LAWRENCE DRILLS ON DEFENSIVE GAME.

FROWNS ON DRIBBLE

Mentor Eliminating Spectacular Phase of Game for a Lightning Pass to Speed Up Play.

With a percentage of .500 in the M. I. A. A. race, the Bearcats of the Northwest Teachers College are emphasizing the defensive side of the game in preparation for the two contests with the Cape Girardeau Indians on the Southeast Teachers floor Friday and Saturday of this week.

Although Cape Girardeau has lost four conference games and won none, Coach H. Frank Lawrence, Bearcat mentor, is expecting two hard battles with the Indians and is planning a careful attack for the Bearcats to spring on the Southeast Teachers. Mr. Lawrence seems to have forebodings in regard to any Cape Girardeau contest because the Indians have a habit of upsetting the "dope."

The coach was not satisfied with the Bearcat defense last week and is now working hard on this phase of the game. He attributes the one defeat the Maryville Teachers have suffered this season to a hesitancy in passing which he is trying to eliminate.

To Cut Down On Dribble.

Dribbling also is frowned on by Mr. Lawrence and it appears that the elimination of this system of advancing the ball, along with a lightning pass which he is striving to perfect is speeding up the team's play.

Mr. Lawrence said yesterday that he hoped to take ten men to the Cape if arrangements could be satisfactorily made. He is not decided as to who these ten will be, however. Some of the regular men are not putting forth all that he expects of them, and he has been playing some of the second string men in the varsity lineup this week.

The Cape team, in spite of defeat by each of the other members of the conference can by no means be considered weak, and it is a much stronger aggregation than last year. The Indians lost Hunter, their captain and star forward, by an injury in the first few plays of the first Warrensburg game, and this evidently disorganized them and they lost by a 57-31 score. The next night, still without their captain and on a strange floor, they came back and held the rampaging Mules to a 34-29 score, which, in view of last week's games here, would look like a considerable achievement.

Nearly Won From Kirksville.

Tired from their long jaunt from the Cape and by two hard games with the Mules, the Indians went on to Springfield for their third consecutive road game in as many nights and were swamped, 61-16. They returned to the Cape, practiced hard and found a new forward in Noce and a strong guard in Kemp, and held Kirksville to a 33-28 score. Only a last desperate offensive by the Bulldogs brought a victory, as the Indians were leading by one point with only four minutes to play. The first half had ended 14-12 for Cape.

AIR FLIVVER TO TRY AGAIN

FORD TWO-CYLINDER PLANE TO MIAMI LATER.

PILOT MUCH PLEASED

Forced Down at Ashville, N. C., by Fog and Ice. With Less Than Half of Gas Used.

Asheville, N. C., Jan. 25.—On the advice of Henry Ford, Harry Brooks, pilot of the flivver airplane which was forced down here on a proposed nonstop flight from Detroit to Miami, Fla., planned to return to his starting point today, with a stop at Washington, D. C.

Thick fog and icy winds over the mountains north of here forced the two-cylinder plane down, Brooks reported, although the newly perfected motor functioned perfectly throughout the 500 mile flight.

His northward flight from here today, he said, was advised by Henry Ford, who suggested he make a second attempt to span the Detroit-Miami route without stop.

Brooks was convinced the flight to Miami could have been made but for weather conditions. Ice formed on the wings of the small plane and on the propeller. Brooks said he tried to lift the craft above the clouds but was unsuccessful and when he tried to go under them, rain blinded him.

Shortly before 4 p. m. he passed over Asheville, circled the city and found a landing place in a vacant lot.

Brooks estimated the two-cylinder engine had used but twenty gallons of the fifty aboard, despite adverse winds that slowed down the speed to fifty-five miles at times.

The pilot was enthusiastic over the performance of the tiny plane.
